The Whistler Waldorf School may add, modify or remove portions of this Personal Information Privacy Policy when it is considered appropriate to do so, and any such changes will be effective upon giving notice of the revised policy. Principle 2 – Identifying Purposes

The Whistler Waldorf School will, before or at the time personal information is collected, identify the purposes for which the information is collected, used and disclosed.

What Information is Collected?

The Whistler Waldorf School collects and uses personal information to provide students with the best possible educational services enunciated by the mission statement of the school. Most of the information the school collects come to the school directly from parents and students or is information regarding the student’s school activities, performance or behaviour, such as attendance records or grades. For example, when a student applies to register in the school, the school will ask you to provide the information that enables it to complete the registration process. This also includes information on academic, health, and personal matters needed by the school to provide the best possible education and co-curricular programs. During the educational life of a student at WWS, there are times when student information must be shared to resolve peer to peer conflict in a restorative way. For example, if two students have ongoing conflict in a class, teachers may include student names in parent communications, and hold collaborative meetings to repair the relationships.

The Whistler Waldorf School also collects information in connection with the use of its computer systems. Personal information may also be collected and used and disclosed in the course of the operation of building security systems.

Principle 3 – Consent

The Whistler Waldorf School will obtain consent of the individual for the collection, use or disclosure of personal information except where the law states exemptions, grants permission, or creates a requirement for collection, use, or disclosure of personal information. Requirements for consent to collection, use or disclosure of personal information vary depending on circumstances and on the type of personal information that is intended to be collected, used or disclosed. In determining whether consent is required and, if so, what form of consent is appropriate, the Whistler Waldorf School will take into account both the sensitivity of the personal information and the purposes for which the Whistler Waldorf School will use the information. Consent may be express, implied (including through use of “opt-out” consent where appropriate) or deemed. For example, if an individual provides his/her mailing address and requests information regarding a particular service, consent to use the address to provide the requested information may be implied.

On giving reasonable written notice to the Whistler Waldorf School, an individual may withdraw consent to the collection, use or disclosure of his or her personal information. Upon notice of withdrawal of consent, the Whistler Waldorf School will notify the individual of the likely consequences of withdrawing his or her consent and, except where otherwise required or permitted by law, the Whistler Waldorf School will stop collecting, using or disclosing the personal information as requested.

If a person provides the Whistler Waldorf School or its service providers or agents with personal information about an individual, the person represents that it has all necessary authority and/or has obtained all necessary consents from such individual to enable the Whistler Waldorf School to collect, use and disclose such personal information for the purposes set forth in this Personal Information Privacy Policy.

Principle 4 – Limiting Collection

The Whistler Waldorf School will limit the personal information collected to that information necessary for the purposes identified by the school.

Principle 5 – Use, Disclosure and Retention

The Whistler Waldorf School will only use, disclose and retain personal information for the purpose for which it was collected unless the individual has otherwise consented, or when its use, disclosure or retention is required or permitted by law.

How is Information Used?

The Whistler Waldorf School uses personal information as follows:

- to communicate with parents and students, process applications and ultimately to provide students with the educational services and co-curricular programs you expect.
- to enable the school to operate its administrative function, including payment of school fees and maintenance of non-educational school programs including parent and volunteer participation and fundraising.
- to support social and behavioural restoration that arises from student conflict and discipline matters

- Health, psychological, or legal information to provide certain specialized services in those areas or as adjunct information in delivering educational services.

If for any reason personal information is required to fulfill another purpose, the school will, where appropriate, notify you and ask you for your consent before the school proceeds. The Whistler Waldorf School may use anonymous information, such as information collected through surveys or statistical information regarding students, to constantly improve our school.

The following are some examples of how the Whistler Waldorf School may disclose personal information.

Other educational institutions routinely contact the school for personal information about students. For example, if a student moves to another school, college or university, student records are requested by the enrolling institution. Your permission to pass on these records is usually obtained when the student is registered, and you authorize the school to disclose such information to other appropriate educational institutions for the ongoing education of the student.

Situational and contact information may be used to enable the school to provide behavioural or conflict resolution support between students and parents.

Contact information may be used to enable the school to provide the para-educational and administrative services usually operated by the school. These services include phoning committees, participation groups, parent meetings, fundraising, events, annual general meetings, etc.

The school allows staff and parents to photograph students and parents in the classroom, during festivals, and school performances, to commemorate events and to promote the school. When Required by Law

The type of information the school is legally required to disclose most often relates to family court issues, legal proceedings, court orders and government tax reporting requirements. Student information as per Form 1701 is annually filed with the Ministry of Education.

Only the information specifically requested is disclosed and the school takes precautions to satisfy itself that the authorities making the request have legitimate grounds to do so.

When Permitted by Law

The school is legally permitted to disclose some personal information in situations such as an investigation of illegal activities, reasonable methods to collect overdue accounts, a medical emergency or suspicion of illegal activities, etc. Only pertinent information is disclosed.

The school does not sell, lease or trade information about you to other parties.

At the Whistler Waldorf School, the school sometimes contacts outside organizations to perform specialized services such as printing, student assessments, market research or data processing. [For example, the school might give its yearbook publisher information required to produce an annual report or yearbook.] Suppliers of specialized services are given only the information necessary to perform those services, and the Whistler Waldorf School takes appropriate steps to ensure that such information is securely transferred and stored and is used only to fulfill the purposes for which it was disclosed to the service provider.

The Whistler Waldorf School framework for distance learning includes the use of Planbook®, Zoom®, and Microsoft Teams® platforms across our grades. Student data is collected and used in accordance with each platform's respective policies.
